

The book cover for "The Quest for Frank Wild" features a black and white portrait of Frank Wild, a man with a beard and a pipe, resting his chin on his hand. The title "THE QUEST FOR FRANK WILD" is printed in white, serif capital letters. Below the title, it says "Including his Original Memoirs" and the author's name "Angie Butler".

ANTARCTICA 2011/2012

Falkland,
South Georgia
and Antarctica

A photograph of a snowy, rocky landscape in Antarctica, with several people standing on a ridge in the distance.

a commemorative expedition

VERY LIMITED SPACE ON THE VOYAGE REMAINS 5% DISCOUNT FOR FRIENDS OF SPRI

Frank Wild commemorative expedition voyage to the Falkland, South Georgia and Antarctica on board the Akademik Ioffe. The missing remains of Shackleton's right hand man, Frank Wild, have been recently found in Johannesburg and in an unprecedented move will be taken to be buried beside Shackleton's grave in South Georgia. Exactly ninety years since Shackleton and Wild embarked on their last voyage together. Ice Tracks Expeditions announce a commemorative 19 day voyage to the Falkland, South Georgia and Antarctica to carry Wild's ashes to his final resting place where two of the greatest polar explorers will finally be reunited during a commemorative ceremony at the whaler's graveyard in Grytviken, South Georgia. The expedition will depart from Ushuaia, Argentina 20th November 2011 and return on 8th December 2011. www.ice-tracks.com